CCP is a centre of excellence which, from 2004-2014, was funded through a grant from the Economic and Social Research Council. It is a leading independent, interdisciplinary, policy focused research centre, exploring competition policy and regulation from the perspective of economics, law, business and political science.

CCP produces research and commentaries on issues of real-world policy relevance without compromising academic rigour.

CCP has close links with, but is independent of, regulatory authorities and other public bodies, including the Competition and Markets Authority, UK regulators, the European Commission, OECD, UNCTAD and the World Bank, as well as private sector practitioners.
